Is there anything else you want to tell us?

If you're being bullied, you need to tell others what has been going on and build yourself a support team to help tackle this issue so that you're not facing this on your own!

If you have talked to someone and they haven't helped, don't give up! Try other options for help! Keep asking until you get the support you need.

When you talk to someone it means you're not alone any longer, and best of all, you can think of ways to overcome the problem together.
